If he should not be identified, because he gave evidence of having come from a refined, excellent stock of people somewhere, and because he possessed genius as well as a habit that ruined him, his name will be worked out to show him who sleeps in his grave. His suicide has been and even yet is a decided sensation principally among the Masonic fraternity throughout the nation successfully [illegible] (St. Louis Globe-Democrat journal.

A French Celebration.

PARIS, July 14.—The taking of the Bastile was celebrated throughout France to-day. In this city, patriotic societies accompanied by bands and carrying banners marched to the Strasburg statue and deposited wreaths upon it. The patriotic leaders headed by M. M. de Rouledie, Laguerre, Laisant and Susini, were received with mingled cries of "Vive Boulanger," "Vive la France," and "Vive la Republique." After leaving the statue the societies visited the monument to Gambetta and the statue of Joan d'Arc, which they also decorated with flowers. M. de Rouledie, in depositing a wreath upon Gambetta's monument said: "We started from the statue of the republic, we visited the statue of Strasburg and we now confront the monument of the great patriot. Our pilgrimage has been more expressive than speeches. We know whether we are ready for the republic. Long live Alsace-Lorraine. Vive Boulanger." Two men were arrested for carrying posters which contained Gen. Boulanger's portrait and bore the inscription, "let all patriots assemble to-night in the Place de la Concorde."

Emperor William Starts to the Meeting.

KIEL, July 14.—The emperor arrived here today en route to meet the czar. The emperor drove through the town to the hall of and was greeted with great enthusiasm. The streets were gaily decorated. The emperor alighted from his carriage at Barbarossa bridge and entered a man of war boat, which took him to the yacht Hohenzollern. As he boarded the vessel the squadron fired salutes and the yards were manned. The merchant vessels in the harbor were decorated with flags. After the different vessels of the fleet had gotten under way, the Prince Henry's yacht that vessel also put to sea. The parade of the fleet was a brilliant spectacle. The maneuvers were carried out with promptness and precision and were watched by thousands of persons from shore and from the decks of vessels. Several private steamers accompanied the fleet to sea.

Fifteen Congress.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—The house resumed consideration of the subsidy amendment of the senate to the post-office appropriation bill.

After debate Bingham's motion to concur in the senate's amendment was lost, yeas 56, nays 126.

By vote of yeas 141, nays 57, the house further insisted upon disagreement to the senate amendment and further conference was ordered.

The house then went into committee of the whole on the tariff bill, the pending schedule being that relative to wool.

After debate the house without action took recess; the evening session to be for consideration of private bills.

Boulanger's Wound.

PARIS, July 14.—This morning it was stated at Boulanger's house that the general passed a fairly tranquil night. His breathing was less labored and the state of the wound in his neck satisfactory. He had conversed with friends and taken some bouillon.

PARIS, July 14.—A bulletin issued this evening says General Boulanger passed a quiet day despite his difficulty in breathing. His pulse is still normal. The crowds which have collected in the streets are orderly and no serious attempt at political demonstration has been made.

Conflicts in Trafalgar Square.

LONDON, July 14.—There was the usual Saturday conflict between the police and people in Trafalgar square to day, arising from attempts of the people to hold a meeting and the determination of the police to prevent them from doing so. Several ugly rushes were made by the people. One arrest was made. Saunders and Cunningham Graham were present.

A Council of Chieftains.

CLEVELAND, July 14.—Chief Sargent of the Firemen's brotherhood arrived in the city last night and had a long consultation with Chief Engineer Arthur to-day, but neither one would say what the nature of the conference was.

A Week Lockout.

PITTSBURG, July 14.—The great iron lockout is partially over and before the end of next week general resumption of the mills is expected. There are still fifty firms in the manufacturers' association that have not yet granted the demands of the workmen, but it seems probable they will sign early next week.

Sale of a Mine.

DENVER, July 14.—A special to the Times from Boulder says James Fleetwood and owners of the Utica mine, in the Ward district, Boulder county, have sold the property to St. Louis parties for $115,000.

A Strike Over.

KANSAS CITY, July 14.—The switchmen's strike on the Burlington is virtually over. Nearly all the Hannibal strikers are seeking new positions, and the Council Bluffs men are waiting to be taken back. The business of the road is progressing as usual.

THE DYNAMITE PLOT.

Two of the Conspirators Make a Clean Breast.

Their Disclosures Evidently of Great Importance.

Chairman Hoge Held Under a More Serious Charge.

Friday, 3d Another Dynamite Plot Reported.

The Conspirators Weakening.

CHICAGO, July 14.—Bowles, the man in the dynamite plot against the Burlington road, against whom testimony given yesterday was most conclusive, has, it is stated, made full confession of his share in the conspiracy. He saw that in his case there was little hope of escape from conviction, and early this morning it was made known to District Attorney Ewing that Bowles would be ready to "squeal." Another of the arrested men, Goldfine, has, it is said, also concluded to come into camp and tell. By noon to-day all that he knows about the plot against the Burlington road will be told. The case of Chairman Hoge and Byrnes, which was to have been tried day after to-morrow, this morning was postponed for one week.

It is understood that Bowles has told the prosecuting officers which will make the conviction of Hoge certain. Chairman Hoge, it would seem, is the man they are really after, not only as a blow they wish to strike the Brotherhood, but because the road officials dislike him personally. The other defendants they are favorably disposed towards. The text of the "squeal" was not made public, but it was important enough to necessitate postponement of the case before the federal court as well as in the state tribunal.

It is certain that when the prisoners, Bowles, Broderick and Wilson, were brought over from the jail this morning to the marshal's office Bowles said he wanted to see the district attorney. He was taken to Ewing's office and there confessed to General Manager Stone, Inspector Bonfield and Attorney Collier. The only direct intimation of the substance of the confession was a well-defined rumor that a United States warrant had been issued for the arrest of Hoge, who is out on $75,000 bonds, under a conspiracy charge brought under the state law.

The crowd waiting in the federal court room was large and chiefly composed of brotherhood men, whose looks of sympathy [illegible] brought in indicated their appreciation of the danger their comrades were in. A sensational scene ensued. The brotherhood attorneys, Donahue and Farrell, protested loudly that they had been treated with great unfairness and given no show from the very outset of the trial. Lawyer Farrell hotly denounced Commissioner Hoyne, declaring, "We could expect nothing else from this court and have received nothing else." The commissioner ordered David to be arrested by the marshal, but the latter did not at once comply, and David subsequently made a Pickwickian apology to the court. Bail was fixed at $5,000 for Bowles, but he preferred to remain in custody. After court adjourned the heretofore reticent prisoner, Wilson, savagely denounced Bowles, ridiculing the idea that the latter was innocent, and exclaiming: "The chicken-hearted! He has laid down."

Another Plot Discovered.

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., July 14.—Burlington officers claim to have unearthed a plot by striking engineers to blow up the new bridge over the Missouri river with dynamite. The dynamite has been located and the parties in possession of it are under surveillance and will be arrested when sufficient evidence is adduced. The officers also claim dynamite was shipped to Plattsmouth and Rulo for similar purposes.

Crooked Railroaders.

CINCINNATI, July 14.—The grand jury made its final report to-day, returning fifteen indictments. It is generally understood that they include R. A. McDonald, for perjury in connection with his suit against the C. H. & D. railroad; Henry S. Stiles, Geo. H. Haynes and E. W. Woodruff for embezzlement in connection with their disposal of securities of the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton road when Saynor was president, Stiles vice president and Woodruff treasurer.

Stock Markets.

NEW YORK, July 14.—The feeling in the stock market was still bullish, and the same conditions prevailed that made the advance yesterday, and a further gain in quotations was the result of the day's operations, the market closing at about the highest prices obtained during the week. Governments dull and steady.

He says he offered to give O'Donnell his personal aid in every way he could, and also do his best to persuade Parnell to give him pecuniary assistance.

BASE BALL.

The Colorado Springs Club Shows that the Golden is an Errorless Game.

Colorado Springs has the best base ball club in the state. If there have been any doubts regarding this fact they were dissipated yesterday afternoon when the local club whitewashed the Golden nestlingers in a seven inning game. The game was one of the best exhibitions of ball playing on the home grounds this season. The game was marred with a little by the poor umpiring of the home club. They played with a vim and determination which if continued will land them victors in every future contest. In batting the members of the home club have made marked improvement. They hit the Golden pitcher yesterday in a manner which surprised even their friends. DeWitt particularly distinguished himself and got a Golden clean for two two-base hits and a home run. The latter was one of the longest hits ever made on the grounds and nearly over the center fielder's head. Ferguson pitched one of the best games of the season, and was brilliantly supported. His record of eleven strikeouts in seven innings is a most creditable one, and is rarely equalled and not often surpassed. He was only hit six times and McMahon gave him perfect support behind the bat.

The Golden club is one of the best clubs which have visited the city this summer. They play a good game of ball, but yesterday they were simply overmatched. The Colorado Springs club is now playing a game which should entitle them to a liberal public patronage. It is a matter of regret that the games heretofore played have not been largely attended. The game to-day Tuesday afternoon should witness a perceptible improvement in this respect. The appended score tells the story of yesterday's contest:

An architect's competition was decided day before yesterday at Boulder, Colo., for a large school building to be built at that place, and the successful competitor was Mr. Frank T. Lent, of this city. Plans were submitted by Robert S. Roeschlaub and several Denver architects, and it is the third time Mr. Lent has been the winner of similar competitions. The building will be of Boulder stone entire. The light red to be used for main walls, the dark red for range work in foundations, and the trimmings to be of the white stone. Boulder abounds in these varieties of building stone and Mr. Lent will soon introduce it in Colorado Springs. The school will be 70 feet by 87 feet; two full stories and basement, will consist of eight large rooms, corridors, etc., and when completed will cost about $30,000.

He was brought to his home as quickly as possible and received medical attention. No limbs were broken and besides a few scratches his injuries are internal. At last accounts he was doing well, and is likely to completely recover.

A NEW ENTERPRISE.

Survey Completed of a Pipe Line Nine Miles Long.

To Extend From West Monument Creek to Austin's Bluffs.

And Owned by the West Monument Land and Water Company.

The Work of Construction to Commence Within Thirty Days.

The purchase of the Harris ranch on West Monument creek by the West Monument land and Water company which was reported in the Gazette a few days ago gives that corporation the control of one of the most valuable water rights in the county. In addition to the Harris ranch the company own a number of other properties along the creek which gives it almost the sole control of the water. The gentlemen who compose the above named company are also interested in the Austin Bluffs Town company, the object of which is to lay out and control a town site at the foot of Austin's bluffs about a mile and a half distant east of the city.

The latter company have recently purchased 1,600 acres in that beautiful city, and the town site has been surveyed and platted into lots. It is easily accessible to the city and it possesses every requisite for a beautiful and attractive suburban town. A wide and beautiful boulevard will be constructed to the town site from this city, and in all probability the Rock Island railroad will place a station there.

The matter of a water supply for the new town has been permanently and satisfactorily settled by the purchases alluded to above. In order to convey the water from the West Monument to the town the company have decided to construct and maintain a single pipe line, the survey of which has already been made under the personal supervision and direction of County Surveyor H. J. Reid.

The length of the original line was ten miles, but since the purchase of the Harris property it will not exceed nine miles. The survey passes directly through Monument park, and its nearest approach to this city is about a mile and a half north of Colorado street, the ditch in which the pipe will be laid will have an average depth of five feet, and the diameter of the pipe will be either eight or twelve inches. The course of the ditch will be almost due west from the creek to the townsite.

The water will be taken from the West Monument about three miles above the ice houses of the Cascade ice company at Edgerton, and near the confluence of the north fork of the creek. So great will be the pressure obtained that it will be necessary to construct a number of settlers or reservoirs between the town and the head of the main, in order to lessen the force and keep the pipe intact. Even with these precautions it is contended that the pressure at the base of the bluffs will be between eighty and one hundred pounds.

The water company propose to construct two or three storage reservoirs near the point of outlet, the water from which will be used for the purposes of irrigation. The surplus flow from the pipe will more than supply the reservoirs. The entire line will be laid in about four months, and the cost of constructing it, is placed in round numbers at about $75,000.

This enterprise will prove of great benefit to this city, and as soon as the line is in operation the fear of an insufficient water supply will be in a great measure removed. It is stated that the West Monument Land & Water company may submit a proposition to the city council to provide the northern part of the city with water from its main. As was stated above the distance from the main to Columbia street, three blocks above the college, is only a mile and a half, and the cost of connection would be comparatively slight. If the company should succeed in obtaining the franchise they would necessarily lay the mains and make the connection at their own expense. Another benefit which will be derived from the pipe line is that one of the most beautiful residence portions of the city will have an abundant water supply, which cannot be provided by the present system for the want of sufficient pressure.

Estimates are now being made on the cost of the line, and it is expected that the contract for constructing it will be awarded in less than thirty days.

Yesterday's issue of the Denver Republican contained the following special telegram from Pueblo: "Major John Hulburt of Manitou has purchased of Dr. J. B. Mitchell 1,500 acres of unimproved mesa land three and one half miles north of Pueblo on the Fountain, paying therefor the sum of $91,200, or $60 per acre. This land was purchased from the government about five years ago by Dr. Mitchell for $1.25 per acre, and a year ago he offered to sell it for $12 per acre. Major Hulburt owns considerable other property here, but the tract he purchased to day he will plat into town lots at an early day, his intention being to lay out a town for suburban residences, which he will call North Pueblo. The railroad now running through the town will put in switches and stations. The boring of several artesian wells will be commenced at once and a ditch will also be taken out of the Fountain to irrigate the land. Trees will be planted, streets graded, etc., and Major Hulburt says he will spend as much in improvements as the cost of the land."

REPUBLICAN NATIONAL TICKET.

FOR PRESIDENT,
BENJAMIN HARRISON,
Of Indiana.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,
LEVI P. MORTON,
Of New York.

The railroads are anticipating very heavy passenger business on the arrival of Blaine in New York. The agents have met, and have given round-trip tickets for one fare to all parties of twenty or more. Blaine is expected to arrive July 27th.

T. P. O'Connor in the London Star accuses Mr. Walter, the owner, and Mr. [illegible] of uttering forgeries they knew were forgeries. The Times has been challenging people to bring it into the courts for some time. This is a challenge which will give the Times a splendid chance to get into the courts.

Floquet, who conquered Boulanger, is a much older man. He will be sixty years old this fall, while Boulanger has just turned fifty. He was suspected of connection with the commune, and was confined for a short time in 1871. Strange to say, at the same time Boulanger was wounded while fighting the commune. Their positions are now reversed. Boulanger is the radical and Floquet the conservative. The latter is one of the thirty-eight members for Paris, and stood second on the list at the election, thus showing his popularity.

The Bellevue society has called a meeting at the Baptist church on Tuesday afternoon, and invites all to attend who are interested in the objects of the society. The purpose of the society, as expressed in its constitution, is that of offering "a temporary home, known as the Bellevue Sanitarium, to persons of limited means, who come to Colorado Springs in failing health, requiring care and comforts for which they are unable to pay full value, although by no means dependent on charity for subsistence." It requires no lengthy argument to show the usefulness of this society. There has always been a need of such a sanitarium here. The officers of this society are working with great energy, and should receive hearty cooperation.

The latest reports of Mr. Randall's condition give cause for grave apprehension, and will be received throughout the country with profound regret. He has been a prominent figure in congress for the past thirty years, and has exercised a potent influence in shaping legislation. He has done a great amount of hard work, and his present illness can be traced to that cause. The day on which he was taken ill—he left his house for the purpose of going to the house to secure the passage of a pension bill for a poor widow in his district. He was compelled to return to his home before he reached the capitol, but notwithstanding the entreaties of his family he managed to attend the evening session, and had the satisfaction of seeing his bill passed.

Elsewhere we publish a letter from Mr. Thomas Barber on the position of the prohibition party. We have before definitely stated the position of the prohibition party as Mr. Barber gives it. But it is unfortunate that the action of the national prohibition party usually aids the saloon element and injures the only one of the two great national parties that has ever attempted to assist or enforce any temperance legislation. This was notably the case in New York state last fall. The republican party had against the bitter opposition of the "saloon" element put a high license law through the assembly. The saloon element by voting for the democratic candidate, and the prohibitionists by putting up another ticket, were successful in defeating the republican party. In effect the latter were useful allies of the former.

In Chicago the collecting agencies have pursued a system of blackmailing and persecution which has been outrageous. Of course there would be no pity for the victims if they were people who had money and were avoiding the payment of their honest debts, or if they were extravagant people who persistently lived beyond their means. Congress recently passed a law forbidding these agencies to use the mails in a way to persecute debtors. One of the agencies was called "Sprague's Bad Debt Collecting Agency." Of course anyone receiving a letter was advertised as a person who was poor pay. This firm thinks of fighting the law. It has about three hundred thousand envelopes, which it cannot use, with this card printed in the corner. It is a matter of surprise that respectable merchants will employ these agencies to collect their bills. But when respectable merchants do this, it is only to collect bills from what they think are dead beats.

The London postoffice authorities state [illegible] 300,000 [illegible] out as great a mass of papers, etc., to the house of commons as recently in protest against the compensation clauses of the local government bill. So great has been the pressure that an additional cart was found necessary.

RUMORS OF WAR.

Prince Ferdinand on the Work of European Correspondents.

Oxford, July 3, 1888.

There are exceptions to all rules, and [illegible] real phenomenon—that is the proper high polite word, is it not?—to be seen in the regions of Vienna correspondence. For one day the rumors of wars took a shape for which no one could have looked. Either the correspondent for once forgot himself, or else he left his business in the hands of a deputy who did not at all know how to maintain prudent attitude. Who is not used to the "foreign emissaries" stirring up innocent people in southeastern Europe, people who would repose quite quietly under the beneficent sceptre of the sultan, if only the foreign emissaries would keep from putting naughty thoughts into their heads? Only these wicked people are almost always Russians or persons acting in Russian interests. But the Vienna correspondent is a [illegible] that one day this year [illegible] that there were Austrian emissaries in Macedonia and the neighboring lands trying to stir up the Roumans to do some thing or other. Such a statement at once carried conviction with it. Austrian emissaries would not be so foolish as to stir up Greeks, Bulgarians or Albanians. For Greeks, Bulgarians, Albanians, have "national aspirations"—is not that the correct phrase?—aspirations which are at least not hopeless, which may, if those actions are let alone, some times change from "aspirations" into facts. It would never do for Austrian emissaries to encourage any of these; either Greek or Bulgarian advance would assuredly bar the way to Salonica. But a Roman stir would be just the thing. The Roumans in those parts are so scattered they can never form a separate state; they must be content to enroll their lot with their neighbors, Greek, Bulgarian, Albanian, as may happen in each particular district. It would not suit an Austrian emissary to get up a movement which could never come to any thing, but which might give an excuse for a great power to step in, and perhaps to be carried to Salonica on Rouman shoulders, as it was once largely carried on Roman shoulders, both to Vienna and to Budapest.

This time then those circles which are so little diplomatic, so little well informed, as both to know and to say something about the doings of the nations, and not only of the doings of the despots and diplomatists, might sincerely thank the Vienna correspondent for having, once in a way, helped them to some thing which was certainly new, and which on the face of it was true.

About the same time the same correspondent had another opportunity of doing the like. On April 12th a most remarkable speech was made in the house of representatives at Vienna by Dr. Gregr, one of the Bohemian members. With much boldness and much truth, Dr. Gregr set forth the lawful rights of the man, or kingdom, to which he belongs, and the way in which all right and freedom has been trampled on by an Austrian ministry which came into office pledged to better things. There was no demand for what English politicians would perhaps call a "disintegration of the empire."

There was not a word implying a wish to have a king of Bohemia distinct from the head of the house of Austria; nor is there any reason to believe that patriotic Bohemians wish for any such thing. Their case is different from that of the South Slavonic nations. Complete separation from Austria would not suit Bohemia. It would most likely mean a worse thing, than the Austrian connection, namely, being swallowed up in the German empire. But Dr. Gregr said plainly enough that the Bohemians wished that the head of the house of Austria should make himself lawful king of Bohemia by a lawful crowning, and that, as king of Bohemia, he should obey the law of his kingdom. Bohemia, in short, speaking by Dr. Gregr's mouth, asked to be put on the same lawful footing as Hungary; she asks to have her king and her laws, and no longer to be left open to the petty oppression of a government which in Bohemia really has at this moment no legal right. The way in which the speech was received both by friends and enemies showed that Dr. Gregr was not airing any crotchet of his own, but was speaking in the name of a nation whose ancient rights have been trampled on and which desires to have the rule of law put in the place of the rule of no law. Surely it is well that the British public or any other public should know that "questions" like these are being daily raised, and that they await their solution in some shape or another. A special correspondent at Vienna may really not know what goes on in Crivoscia, but he cannot help knowing what is said in the parliament of Vienna. But then it would not do to let a speech like this go further than can be helped. It would not do to mar the picture of nations reposing under the beneficent sceptre. When "despots and diplomatists have great matters to settle without consulting the nations, it is not well to let out the ugly fact that the nations have their matters also about which they have something to say. Above all, though the case of Bohemia is not the case of Ireland, yet it has too much in common with the case of Ireland for it to be at all fit for the British public to know that a question so like the Irish question has been raised in another land. So, to avoid any such dangerous consequences, it was thought wiser not to tell the British public anything about Dr. Gregr's speech. But, in order to look wise in Bohemian affairs, it was thought good to say something about the "secession" and "revolt" of the "Young Czech party," and how that "secession" and "revolt" might perhaps do some harm to the Taaffe ministry. Now any plain man in England could understand a clear summary of Dr. Gregr's speech, and could see its bearing on matters nearer home. But very [illegible] those who want to see Bohemia and every other land get its rights, have any clear notion of the difference between the "Young" and the "Old" Czech parties; and, as for the Taaffe ministry, or any other ministry, what can its rise or its fall matter, except so far as the nations with whom it has to do are affected by it? If the Taaffe ministry will do right by Bohemia or by any other land, then "hurrah for the Taaffe [illegible] Bohemia or any other land, then "down with the Taaffe ministry!" But to view this like the special correspondent the rise or fall of a ministry is an end in itself, far more to be thought of than the mere bondage or deliverance of a nation. It is much finer, much more becoming in a well informed circle, to pass by such unions as the groaning of a nation, and rather to record some vague rumor of the thoughts of princes and their ministers, to make a summary of some article in some "inspired" newspaper which does not "come quite so straight from the hearts of a people as the speech of Dr. Gregr does.

"Is the war coming or not? Nobody knows; the correspondents themselves do not venture to say that they know. But two things are certain. One is that the endless rumors of wars most decidedly [illegible] just now there is not the slightest reason why any one of the great powers of Europe should make war upon any other. But, if they cannot stir still, if they must do something, there is one thing which they might very well join to do. They are always talking about enforcing the Berlin treaty. Why do they not enforce it? The Berlin treaty is daily broken in the face of all the powers, and none of the powers does anything to hinder its breach. They seem always to forget that the Berlin treaty, which does not bind the nations that never signed it, does bind the despots who did sign it. The Turk breaks it daily. Of course he does; nobody, save perhaps a diplomatist, or a correspondent, is so much the slave of formula as ever to have expected that he would do anything else. How he breaks it may be seen daily in Macedonia; it may be seen in the memorial of the wrongs of Armenia which has for long been sent in to the British government and which our British government of course takes no heed. Yet the Turk is as much bound to give free institutions and good government to those lands as everybody else is bound to carry out any of the other clauses of the treaty. Of course the Turk breaks the treaty; as long as he is a Turk, he must break it; no Mussulman ruler of Christians can do what the treaty binds him to do. Those who drew up the treaty must have known that the Turk would certainly break it; one can hardly get rid of the thought that some of those who drew it up meant that the Turk should break it. Those who put back under the Barbarian yoke a large Christian territory which has been already set free, with no guarantee except the word of the barbarian, knew perfectly well what they were about. Here, spite in one quarter, here indifference in another, did a good deal. But there is another quarter in which a more active sense of interest was busy at work. Our newspapers [illegible] were an afternoon's ride. They crow when the making of a railway seems likely to make the process easier. Either they do not know or they do not care that going to Salonica in their sense simply means the overthrow of the freedom and national being of all the nations round about Salonica. We hear of a League of Peace, and a real league of peace would be a blessing indeed. But is it not rather like crying "peace, peace," when there is no peace, to hope for any peace worthy of the name from a [illegible] whose interests are always the very opposite to peace, a power whose policy it is not to go to war itself, but to let other powers go to war, and then to filch the prize of their toils from all of them? "Going to Salonica" is not peace; it means war or something worse than war, that utter destruction of national life compared to which war itself is a blessing. The most stirring question of the moment, to use the cant phrase, is Bulgaria. What is needed is something very easy, but just because it is so very easy, it is of all things to be done. All that is needed is to leave Bulgaria alone. The active hindrance to Bulgaria being left alone comes just now from Russia. But does any one believe that a really free and powerful Bulgaria would be any more acceptable at Vienna than it would be at St. Petersburg? Does any one believe that, if the League of Peace went to war to preserve peace, and Aristotle says that to secure peace is the object of war—Bulgaria would really be let alone? Sometimes we see hints that the war may be kept from beginning, or, if it begins, it may be stopped by a partition of the South Eastern mediums between two despotisms. And of this people speak quite quietly, as if it were the most ordinary thing in the world. Yet it simply means the utter rooting out of freedom and national life in a large quarter of Europe. In short, if a war should break out, the outlook is of the very blackest. The war will not go on for ever; even despots will some day get tired of killing people; only, when the war come to an end, the last state of the lands concerned is likely to be worse than the first; the freedom and life of some nation, perhaps of several nations will be sacrificed to patch up peace among the despots. The only hope is one so vague that it is hardly worth speaking of. Suppose the nations, when their masters call on them to fight for their masters' purposes, should either refuse to fight at all, or should fight for their own purposes instead. The thing is very unlikely but it is not physically impossible. Only to talk about it is perhaps to add to the number of rumors of wars and to spread about rumors of wars is just now the most mischievous thing that can be done. Therefore it is best to hold one's peace, but at the same time not quite to forget that, if there are such things as powers in the world, there are such things as nations too.

Four of the great non conformist bodies of England, Wesleyan Methodists, Congregationalists, Baptists and Society of Friends have officially pronounced against the licensing clause of the local government bill.

[illegible]

Chicago and Denver, July 14.

To the Editor of the Gazette:

DEAR SIR: I am at a loss to know whether you think it will help the republican party to misrepresent the prohibitionists on the subject of the tariff [illegible] this morning. I would not insult you by supposing you are not posted on our platform.

R. G. Ingersoll, the great exponent of republican doctrine, said in a speech at New York last month: "I don't believe that if the Mississippi itself were pure whisky and the banks had sugar and all the flies covered with mint, and all the bushes grew ice cocktails and tumblers there would be more drunkenness than there is now."

This may be in accord with the republican platform but certainly not with the prohibition platform.

We believe in abolishing the tax because we think it is a sin for any government to derive a revenue from a wrong principle, and we constantly endorse the declaration of the bishops of the M. E. church that the "liquor business cannot be legalized without sin," and after abolishing the tax we propose to abolish the whiskey traffic that the nation will be a moral sanitarium. Yours respectfully,

THOS. BARBER.

GREEN MOUNTAIN FALLS.

Attractions of the New Resort in the Mountains

Among the pleasure and the other [illegible] I spending of particular attention to Green Mountain Falls [illegible] Colorado Springs on the Colorado Midland railway [illegible] native of the Tarkett [illegible] on Friday and were much impressed with the locality [illegible] had not an natural park of about [illegible] acres in extent completely shut in by mountains on every side and is approached [illegible] The entire region embraced [illegible] by the growth of pine spruce cottonwood and aspen The elevation is about [illegible] above sea level the atmosphere in summer always cool and invigorating and on account of its sheltered situation the locality is admirably adapted for a winter as well as a summer resort

Prominent among the visitors are Mr Byron Roberts treasurer of Shawnee county Kas Mr Oscar Bonnell, ex United States consul to Sonora [illegible] Mr J W Dillman of Wichita all of Topeka [illegible] porter was driven over the possessions of the town company At the upper end of the park a good view of the big falls may be obtained The wall of mountains on the almost perpendicular hundreds of feet in height and down this cliff a considerable body of water rushes forming a natural falls These are the headwaters of the Fontaine Qui Bouille

Another source of water supply is Crystal creek which tumbles rather than flows, from the regions of perpetual snow down through one of the wildest yet among the most lovely and enchanting [illegible] A well built trail with substantial stairways and rustic bridges crossing and recrossing the stream leads up the canon a considerable distance The quaking aspen interspersed with cottonwoods and firs grow in profusion and ferns and tiny wild flowers [illegible] their shadow The white water leaps from rock to boulder and roars and purls by turns as it hastens downward to the valley This stream is to supply the town with water and a large force of men are now at work and will have the system completed in a short time The supply is inexhaustible and the water is pure and delicious

One of the principal attractions of the resort is an artificial lake about four acres in extent, recently excavated, and now filled with water. In one end of the lake is an island on which a handsome Turkish modeled pavilion and bandstand is now being built Near the other end of the lake will be a fountain A flock of large white domestic ducks are at home on the lake, and the company have purchased 5,000 trout with which to stock it Several handsome pleasure boats have already been launched and others are being constructed for the purpose A wide and well graded boulevard encircles the lake The banks are to be sodded and an elegant boat house will be built

A short distance from the lake on a rising plateau, in the midst of a grove of [illegible] is an elegant pavilion, 40x60 feet on hot roof and encircled by an outer promenade with seats and railing This pavilion is for the accommodation of picnic parties many of which go to Green Mountain Falls

The place presents a lively appearance and nearly a hundred men and many teams are at work on different improvements. What is to be one of the most elegant hotels in the west is now nearly complete and will be ready for business early in August It will cost $20,000 and is handsome in design and will be finished and furnished elegantly It contains fifty two rooms and no modern improvements have been omitted A full description of the hotel, when it is fully completed will be read with interest It is now in the hands of the plasterers and as many men as can be handled are kept employed

The company now have about thirty well constructed and furnished tents on the grounds all of which are occupied and the demand for others is being supplied as rapidly as possible Arrangements have been made by several private parties to build cottages and they will be constructed during the present summer

The Midland Railway company is also making improvements A force of men is at work on a new depot which will be handsome in design and finish and will add to the attractiveness of the surroundings. Green Mountain Falls is the western destination of the Midland suburban train from Colorado Springs and the place may be visited almost any hour of the day

CASCADE CANON ITEMS.
